Information about the Yoga Cooperative & Membership

The Yoga Co-op is a membership organization, owned and run by its members. Our mission statement reads as follows: The Yoga Cooperative of Madison is a non-profit membership organization with a primary mission to provide and maintain space, props, and opportunities for individual and group practice of yoga, yoga classes, and workshops.

Benefits of membership:

- unique community supporting your practice of yoga
- reduced fees for classes, series, and workshops
- co-op lending library of books, Yoga Journal, and DVD's
- social events (potlucks, etc.)

Cost of membership:

- annual membership fee of $60 per calendar year or $30 for July 1 to December 31.

Opportunities for involvement:

- have a voice in running the Co-op, providing feedback to teachers and board members
- attend our annual membership meeting and vote on issues subject to member approval
- depending on your interest: contribute your hands and personal talent to a variety of marketing, administrative, or other assignments; help with our annual spring cleaning; promote the Co-op in the Madison community
- serve on the Co-op board
